Moreover, the report explained that this will help them provide a safe working environment where the flow of job opportunities is constant. The free vaccination campaign launched by the government is likely to have a positive impact on the labor market and on the overall economy as most respondents believe it will help them in providing a safe working environment for their employees with stable job opportunities, according to a report. More than 87 percent of respondents believe a free vaccination campaign could prevent a second reverse migration of these workers because they would also be eligible for vaccinations, according to a report from human resource solutions provider Genius Consultants.
